DAY 4: BANDON - PORT ORFORD OPTION

TODAY'S ROUTE

"Parks in Paradise"
After the rollout along scenic Beach Loop Road, enjoy a surprise: glassy-smooth pavement and good shoulders along Highway 101. The optional side trip to Cape Blanco is a must-do, taking you past headland mesas and cranberry bogs to the cape's rugged shoreline and majestic lighthouse. Our lunch spot at a park in Port Orford features trails leading to the beach. Retrace your way back up the coast for a new view of the same great scenery, and then find more fun back in Bandon.

KEN'S CORNER

Most of today's route is on Highway 101. Everyone who rides should make sure to use the adequate available shoulder, and also make sure there's no traffic coming from behind when passing slower riders.
NOTE: A construction project will affect part of Cape Blanco Road as well as Highway 101 south of there; be careful of gravel trucks. There's an option to visit Cape Blanco, the westernmost point in Oregon and site of the southernmost of Oregon's lighthouses. Cape Blanco is typically windy, but does offer a great view of the ocean. The trip to the lighthouse is about five miles each way, and the road has no shoulder, so be sure to share the road with cars. Lunch is on the water at Battle Rock Park in Port Orford, one of the few ports where boats are launched by hoisting them into and out of the water by crane from the dock. There might be some congestion when leaving lunch, so course monitors will be stationed there and at both water stops to assist everyone.

GO GREEN: PASS IT ALONG!

NOTES AND NEWS

Here you'll find important information, good stories along the way, and daily features. For Day One, we have quite a bit to tell you.

OSU EXTENSION

Get great information at the OSU Extension booth - 3-6 p.m. daily, next to Rider Services.

Oregon's So. Coast Ecosystem

The South Coast of Oregon from Bandon to Port Orford is the crown jewel of the Oregon Coast. Its scenic beauty is unparalleled, it's lightly travelled, and it's rarely crowded. Specific sites to not miss:

- Bandon Beach Loop: Views of sea stacks and beach access
- Mile 283 - West to New River Area of Critical Environmental Concern; snowy plover habitat
- Mile 288.9 - West to Floras Lake for easy beach access, views of kiteboarders and windsurfers
- Mile 296.6 - West to Cape Blanco and one of the oldest working West Coast lighthouses
- Mile 300 - East up Elk River Road for a scenic ride in a pristine coastal Oregon valley
- Battle Rock Wayside - Site of an 1851 battle between pioneers and local Natives.

BLM BOUNTY

BLM public lands in the Coast Range of southwestern Oregon offer a rich and diverse outdoor recreation resource for visitors to experience.

- Cape Blanco Lighthouse: This lighthouse holds at least four Oregon records: oldest continuously operating light, most westerly point in Oregon, highest focal plane above the sea, (256 feet), and Oregon's first woman keeper: Mabel E. Bretherton signed on in March 1903.

- Sixes River: Explore the region as early miners did by rock-hopping or walking along the river, or set a more leisurely pace by bird-watching, playing in the water, and relaxing in the shady campground.

TWO & OAK

This is what you call a lunch with a view.

Is there anything better than arriving like a conquering hero?

You know you were happy to see this...

One man, two saxes... a mind-blowingly good band.

These were prettier in pink... but you get the idea.

And over here will be the wraparound deck...

Youthful optimism and energy, in abundance.

The lush greenery of the coastal forest.
